Do you love to draw? Do you love to write? Enter the world of comics and you won't have to choose between the two! Comics, or 'Sequential Art', is the quintessential amalgamation of drawing and writing that doesn't require you to be a master of either. Learn how to create your own comics from start to finish, including everything from character design to pacing, story structure to script-writing. Develop and discover your inner comedian, the artistic styles of a cartoonist, and how to love your own work. Learn how to self-publish your own work and how to bring them to the world. Cartooning is a world of trial and error, so expect to spend as much time writing and drawing as possible. (Occasionally, we pause to breathe.)

For students already in the thick of making their own comics and comfortable with the basics, but for whom the ideas of 'polishing', 'distributing', and 'publishing' remain cloudy and out of reach. In this class, young cartoonists will work directly with a veteran web cartoonist with 10 years' experience. Students will bring their work to class with the intention of sharing, refining, receiving guidance, solidifying their presentation, and taking the first steps on the road to putting their work into the world. This is a program for budding cartoonists who know what they want to make, and want it to be the best it can be.

Level: Grades 4-12
